

ClearLife

If you have a salad for lunch and an apple after dinner, you might think you're eating a healthy diet. Or maybe you're one who eats a burger and fries with ketchup and believes you've met your daily nutritional requirements for fruit, vegetables and protein.

The fact is, most of us today don't get the fiber or nutrients we need from our diet. Our food industry has learned to give us what we've asked for - and what sells best - the three things our taste buds crave the most: fats, sweets and salt. Moreover, modern food processing methods and the depletion of our soils has destroyed much of the nutrient value in our foods. Our bodies are starving for critical nutritional elements; the result is that heart disease, cancer and diabetes are epidemic. We've come to expect that we will eventually die from either a diseased heart or cancer. We forget that there was a time when these diseases were rare; that in some cultures today, they still are.

Current research shows that over half of these deaths are preventable. That bears repeating: Half of the people who are going to die from cancer or heart disease can avoid succumbing to that fate by making the necessary diet and lifestyle changes. Up to now, the problem has been that the hectic, fast-paced lives we lead made such changes arduous. Many of us believe we should be taking supplements but we're baffled by the vast array available in our health food stores. Not only are we not educated about our nutritional needs, neither are most of our doctors. Moreover, our needs differ, depending upon our gender, age, lifestyle, medical condition, the environmental conditions to which we are exposed and the genetic make-up of our parents.

An answer is to be found in nutraceuticals, a new category in the fields of alternative and preventive health care that has emerged over the last decade. Rexall, a major force in pharmaceuticals since 1903, has combined forces with Royal Numico, the largest nutritional company in the world to form the nutritional powerhouse, Unicity. Combining their two centuries of expertise, Unicity offers a solution to our problem, bringing to market simple and synergistic formulations with safe, natural ingredients based on sound science. Heart disease, cancer and diabetes are the leading causes of premature death in America today. This is why we are witnessing a change toward wellness medicine and seeking ways to prevent illness. Rexall's nutraceuticals are gender and lifestyle driven and target the diseases and habits that are stealing our health and our lives.
